

Sundays at Four

Providing a venue where area professionals and recognized students can perform and share their art

P.O. Box 61

Smithfield, VA 23431

757.375.9140

www.sundaysatfour.org

A MASTER CLASS for SINGERS

Mary Matthews, soprano
Saturday, November 6, 2010 - 2:00 pm
Christ Episcopal Church
111 South Church Street
Smithfield, VA 23430

Sundays at Four --- a performance arts series, based in the Historic District of Smithfield, announces a new addition to its on-going performance season.

Mary Matthews, a well-known Virginia performer, teacher, coach, and choral conductor will present a master class for singers selected by prior audition.

This is a rare, wonderful opportunity for serious singers, age 14 and older, and their accompanists, to receive professional feedback, and for those in the audience to observe open critiques of Broadway and Classical songs — an outstanding learning experience for students, teachers, directors, and the public interested in fine vocal production and interpretation.

Miss Matthews' teaching career spans more than 34 years. Her students have graduated from prestigious music schools and are professional actors, musicians, and opera singers worldwide.

Student Selection by CD audition.

Student Fee: $25 – Music prepared to recital level (Broadway Musicals, Opera Arias, Art Songs)

Information: call 757.375.9140, or 675.5777, Mary Cole

Tickets at Door - $5.00

This Master Class precedes a Song Recital to be presented on Sunday, November 7, 2010 at 4:00 pm. Soprano, Amy Cofield Williamson, and pianist, Andrey Kasparov, will present a concert of Art Songs as part of the Sundays at Four 2010-2011 series. Selected singers for the Master Class will receive two complimentary tickets to this Sunday performance.

Audition by CD: Please send your CD to: Mary Cole, 1620 Magruder Road, Smithfield, VA 23430 by August 15, 2010.